Collaboration between su-re.co and Green School Bali is Now Official!

be-tank

Su-re.co continues to expand its sustainability training with schools, starting with Green School, Bali. Represented by su-re.co founder and CEO, Takeshi Takama and Kate from Green School, on June 10, 2021, both parties signed the contract of partnership in front of su-re.co's future office at Green School.

The main objective of this partnership is to gain long-term institutionalized knowledge on developing sustainability related technologies/projects. su-re.co's professional practices in research, education, and implementation will provide Green School with the tools needed to self-sustain desired projects while also connect to a network of their partners.

A Lesson Learned from Indonesia

Have you heard about "just transition"? A Just Transition involves a climate-neutral economy that also addresses social problems. Just transitions can also be explained through the use of energy. Our on-going project, TIPPING+, taking the case study in Indonesia is also researching about clean-energy transition.

Through a workshop under an International Conference, Transformations 2021, our CEO, Takeshi Takama shared su-re.co's experience on local and national Just (Energy) Transition(s) on June 18, 2021.

During the workshop, participants can exchange experiences from various regions, with a focus on multi-stakeholders governance. What were they discussing in this workshop? Find the answers in this article : <https://bit.ly/justtransiti onandbiogas>

Apart from this workshop, this past month, su-re.co. in collaboration with MYBIOSEA from Malaysia for the first time conducting international webinars! In total 379 participants joined these webinars entitled "Becoming A Giftmaker for The Earth" to introducing su-re.co to the global youth and "A Tour to Indonesia : AR & Farmer" to experience our activities and meet the farmers through Facebook Live. Collaboration between su-re.co and Green School is Now Official

During our visit to Green School, our giftmakers also introduced our Augmented Reality (AR) about waste management to the students and gave the chance for them to try it. We hope, this collaboration will be a good start for both parties in expanding the sustainability projects.
